I am making this request on behalf of the Christian Musicological Society of India, a not-for-profit organization based in Kochi, Kerala, India. www.thecmsindia.org

Would you please give us a digital copy of The Holy Family, c. 1620s, Northern India, Mughal Court, early 17th century?

We have a section on Indian Christian art: <http://www.thecmsindia.org/christian-art> . Would you allow us to post this image on our website with proper acknowledgment as per your specifications?

Would you allow us to make a Christmas card with the image? This will mostly be for the use of our family and friends.

Look forward to hearing from you

Thank you

Joseph,

Thank you for your request. In 2019, The Cleveland Museum of Art launched its Open Access initiative to the world. This policy with Creative Commons Zero (CC0) means the public now has the ability to share, remix, and reuse 37,000 high-resolution images of CMA artworks for scholarly, commercial, and noncommercial purposes. Additionally, information on more than 61,000 artworks—both those in the public domain and those with copyright or other restrictions—is also now available. The Open Access initiative brings CMA's mission "For the Benefit of All the People, Forever" into the digital age.

The image you requested falls under the criteria of an open access image. The image is available here for download:
